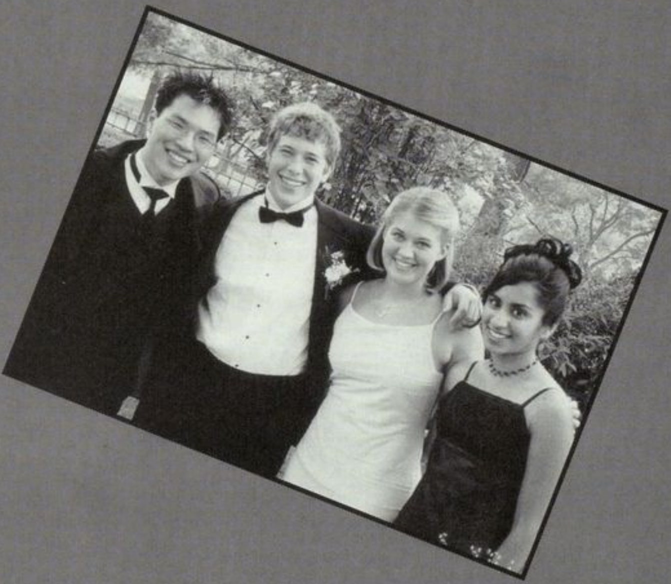
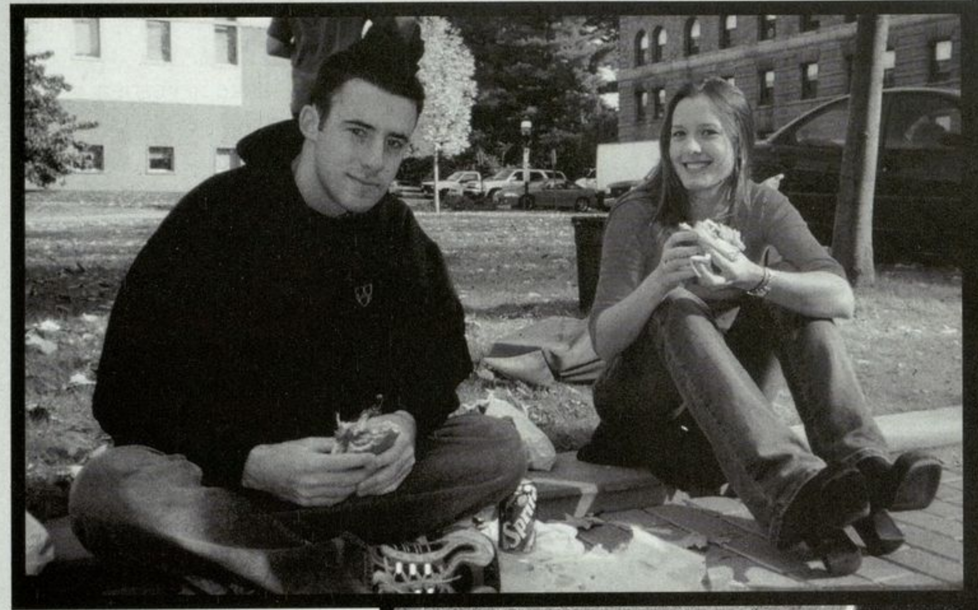
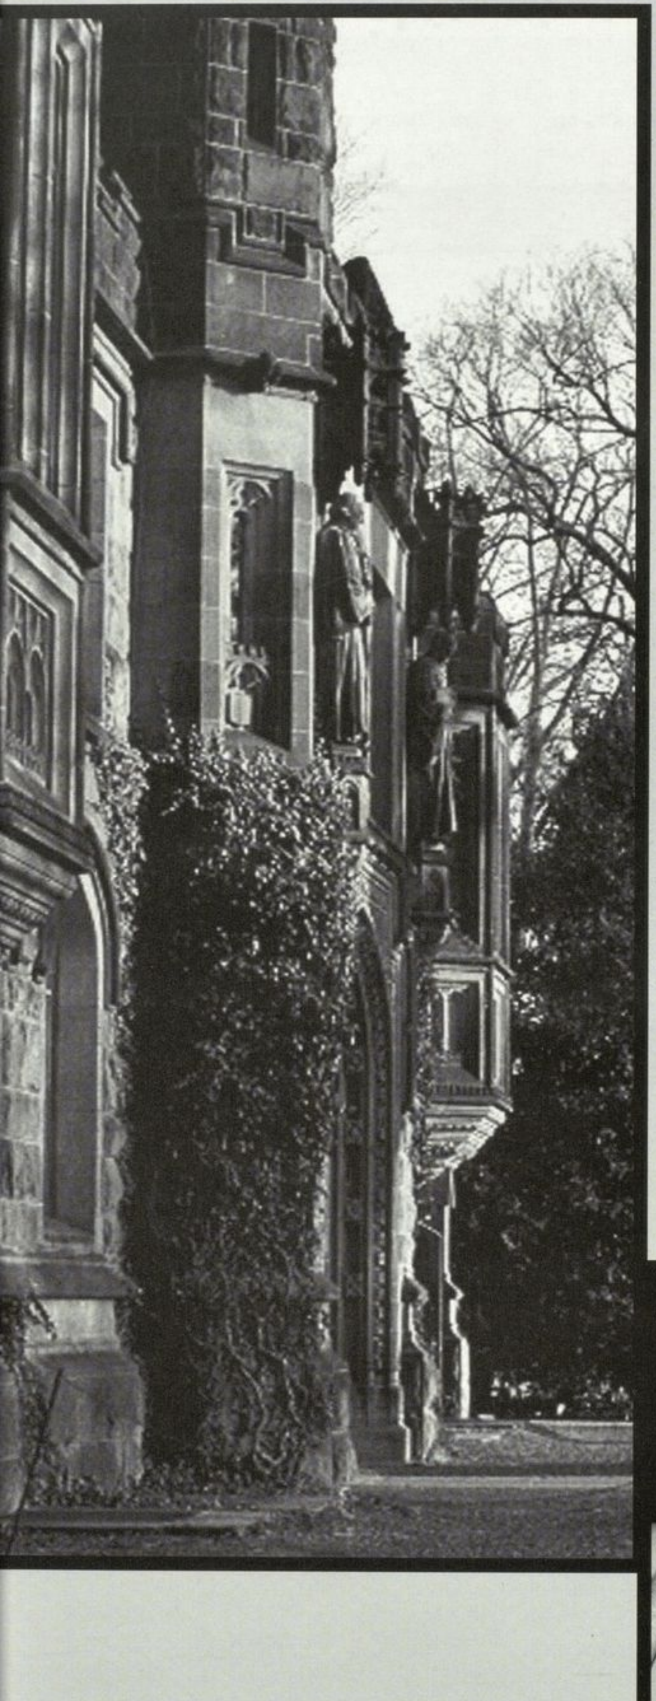
Remember When...







We waited . . .

Finally, it came:

"YES!"

With a single word, we entered the Class of 2003. We began our journeys at Princeton eager to meet fellow students and make new friends. After a week of OA and UA, we returned to campus desperately in need of showers, with a group of friends and the promise of many more. Freshman Week brought the excitement of RA groups, "Sex on a Saturday Night," and Dante's Inferno.

As Hurricane Floyd flooded campus, we began our careers as college students, with the naïve belief that 9am was not a bad time to start class. We soon discovered the Street, the threat of proctors, and the Prospect 11. Orange and black became our new favorite colors as we cheered on the Princeton football team.

After learning to live with strange new people, discovering exploding chicken and other delectable PUDS cuisine, and experiencing our first midterms as college students, we packed into Dillon Gym for Ben Folds Five and celebrated our first Halloween at the Street.

We were the envy of our high school friends in December as we went on break without exams, but Y2K came and January taught us the true art of procrastination. We returned from Intercession ready for our second semester. Despite two losses to Penn, we learned the excitement of Princeton basketball. As the first snowfall came and went without the Nude Olympics, we lamented the loss of a great Princeton tradition.

As spring bloomed on campus, we waited in line for a memorable Jon Stewart performance. Afterwards, some of us peeked in windows of Campus Club to catch a glimpse of Vanilla Ice singing his classic favorite "Ice, Ice Baby." We got creative for "Screw Your Roommate" with the infamous food fight erupting in Rocky. We later enjoyed an Indigo Girls concert and packed Chancellor Green for the Freshman Formal.

Before we realized it, we had taken our last finals of freshman year and were packing up our rooms. As we watched our first P-Rade and Reunions, we began to understand the breadth of the Princeton family and looked forward to our next three years.

We returned to campus in the fall as the older and wiser members of the residential colleges. We enjoyed the grand suites and the large singles that came from being first in room draw. We saw changes around campus with the opening of Frist Campus Center. Loaded with dining options, a beverage lab, and a coffee shop, it replaced Chancellor Green as the late-night hangout. The U-Store introduced U2, which was a welcomed addition to those of us living up-campus who did not want to trek all the way to the Wa. However, even U2 could not make us feel better about the loss of the Wa-boli.

The fall semester proved to be a socially eventful one as we saw the USG bring Busta Rhymes to campus while the class officers pooled together the following week to bring Bob Dylan to Dillon Gym. In December, we saw the Multipurpose Room in Frist transformed as we celebrated our Sophomore Formal.

Outside the "Princeton bubble," the fall of our sophomore years saw one of the most tumultuous presidential elections in history. President Clinton visited Richardson Auditorium to give the keynote address at a conference on the American progressive era. As we watched the helicopters and Secret Service agents swarm over campus, we thought of the upcoming election. A campus crusade for students to register to vote locally led candidates came to campus to show that student support was appreciated. On a national scale, we saw a Princeton alumnus, Ralph Nader, in his campaign for the presidency. On election night, we stayed up until 4am but there would not be a declared winner in the election for weeks, as the final decision would come down to a handful of votes.

treasured moments

As winter rolled around, we saw the basketball team come out victorious over Penn, winning the Ivy League title and earning a bid to the NCAA tournament. Many of us started Spring Break packed into Frist to cheer on the team on big screens as they played University of North Carolina in the first round of the tournament. During second semester, we also became aware of the crucial decisions we had to make. Which major would we pursue? What dining option would be choose? We made our decisions about dining options and many of us spent the remainder of spring semester getting acquainted with our new club.

Casting calls abounded in the spring as The Real World came to Triumph Brewery and extras were solicited for A Beautiful Mind. Then, our campus was transformed into a studio set as Ron Howard and Russell Crowe came to campus for the filming of A Beautiful Mind.

After thirteen years in office, President Shapiro announced that he would be resigning at the end of the school year. The search for a new president ended with a choice from within the University as Shirley Tilghman was appointed the nineteenth President of Princeton University. To honor President Shapiro, the USG Spring Concert hosted his favorite performer, Willie Nelson. We enjoyed a free outdoor concert as G. Love and Special Sauce opened for Willie Nelson. As we finished spring semester, we began to realize that our time at Princeton was halfway done. Still, we had so much to enjoy here.

We arrived back on campus in September of 2001 as upperclassmen. We anticipated leaving our residential colleges, developing new homes in our departments, our eating clubs, and our upperclass housing. Shortly after our arrival on campus, the world changed and Princeton was not immune. In the immediate aftermath of September 11th, televisions around campus remained fixed on CNN and members from across the campus community gathered to mourn and commemorate the lives that were lost.

As the semester progressed and the anthrax scare arose, Princeton was struck once again. The anthrax letters sent through the Hamilton Post Office caused a delay of weeks in our mail. Later, as we studied for midterms, Frist would close down because of an anthrax scare.

Despite these factors, we pressed on and appreciated what we had here at Princeton. Faced with departmentals and junior papers, we began to truly adopt the "work hard, play hard" attitude. At the beginning of the year, we saw one of the biggest parties thrown at Princeton as we celebrated President Tilghman's installation. Later, Bill Bellamy brought laughter in Richardson, followed a few weeks later by a montage by Billy Joel of his life's work. Class trips to New York and study breaks, as well as exciting nights at the Street provided a chance to de-stress from our more rigorous academic schedules.

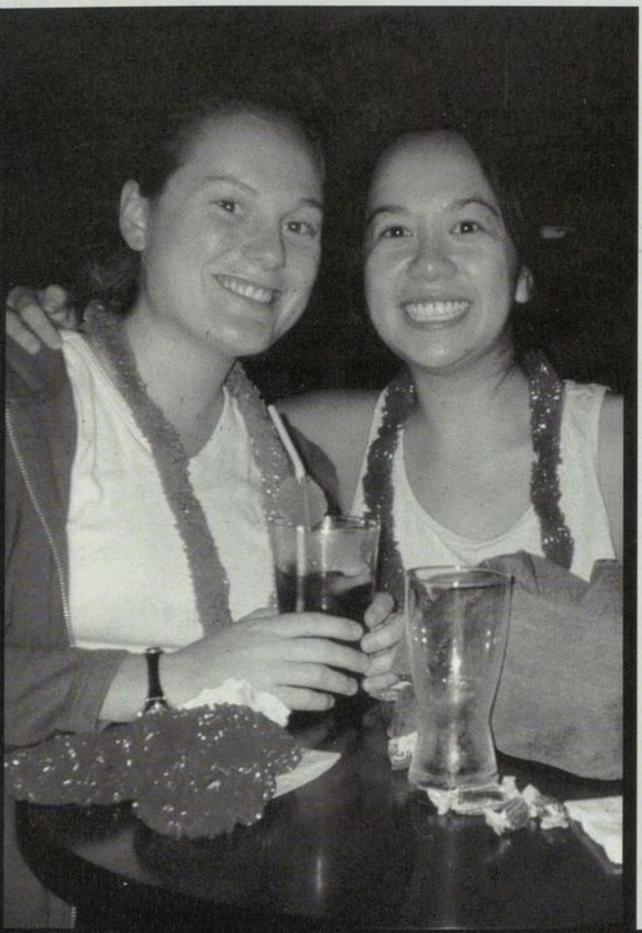
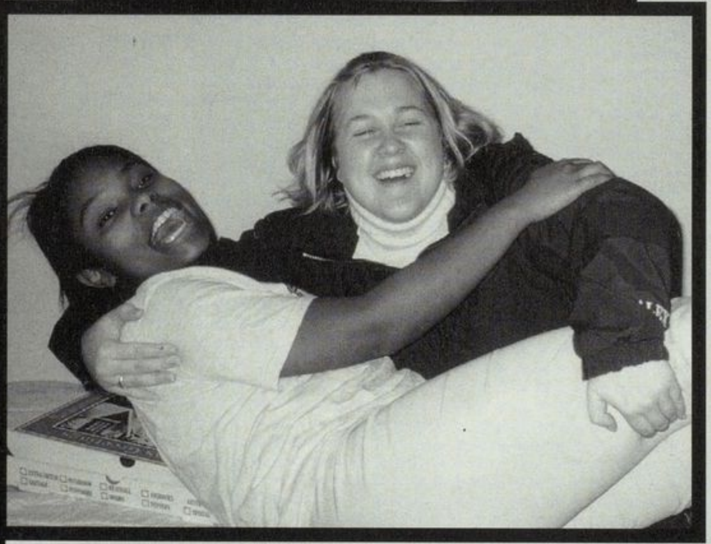
During our freshmen year, we mistakenly thought that our time here at Princeton would last forever; however, as our junior year progressed, we began to realize just how quickly time passes. We began to take ownership of Princeton, taking key positions in student organizations and eating clubs. The summer job search would consume us in the spring, culminating in demanding internships or thesis research. As the year came to a close, we realized that the next year was ours, with many memories and good times to be had.



As we arrived on campus for the last time as undergraduates, we reveled in the recognition that Princeton had topped the U.S. News and World Report rankings for the third consecutive year. It was impossible not to notice that our lives would soon be changing. Fall semester was consumed with finding thesis topics, interviewing for jobs, and studying for graduate school tests.



As we worried about grad school admissions and the dismal job market, we also enjoyed our last year at Princeton. Senior class activities abounded as Ivy Inn and the Annex became popular hangouts for many of us. Senior Week brought exciting activities such as Family Feud, the return of pizza on the Street, a luau at Triumph Brewery, and the Goo Goo Dolls concert.

During our final semester, our theses consumed our lives, becoming our greatest academic accomplishment. We made it through the thesis experience, even though some of us had to sprint from Triangle to our department office. When we turned around from handing in our theses, we realized that our time at Princeton was almost over.

While it seemed as if we just packed up our belongings to come for the first time, it was now time to pack them up from our dorm room for the last time. Looking back, we knew that we would know Princeton as more than just ivy and stone. We would remember it for the people we knew and the space that had become home, for the heartache we suffered together and the triumph we shared. It is, for us, an inside joke, that no one else fully understands. While Princeton may change and construction will continue, nothing can beat the Princeton University that we knew from 1999 until 2003. We are the Class of 2003, the greatest class to walk through Fitz-Randolph gate.

To laugh often and much; to win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children; to earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends; to appreciate beauty, to find the best in others; to leave the world a little better; whether by a healthy child, a garden patch or a redeemed social condition; to know even one life has breathed easier because you have lived. This is the meaning of success.

'Rejoice in the Lord always. I will say it again: Rejoice! Let your gentleness be evident to all. The Lord is near. Do not be anxious about anything, but in everything, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God. And the peace of God, which transcends all understanding, will guard your hearts and minds in Christ Jesus. Finally, brothers, whatever is true, whatever is noble, whatever is right, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is admirable--if anything is excellent or praiseworthy--think about such things. Whatever you have learned or received or heard from me, or seen in me--put it into practice. And the God of peace will be with you.'

Chemists are, on the whole,
like physicists, only 'less so'.
A423They don't make quite the same wonderful mistakes, and much what they do is an art, related to cooking,
instead of a true science.
They have their moments, and their sources of legitimate pride. They don't split atoms, as the physicists
do. They join them together, and a very praiseworthy activity that is.

And we know that in all things God works for the good of those who love him, who have been called according to his purpose. -- Romans 8:28; I have thanked the trees that have made my life fruitful, but have failed to remember the grass that has ever kept it green. In life there are very rare chances that you'll meet the person you love and loves you in return. So once you have it don't ever let go, the chance might never come your way again. Thinking back, I realize how much Princeton has changed my life. These four years not only have reinforced my love for science but also have strengthened my passion for God, Family, Friends and Life itself. Thanks to the Chem-E dept., all my friends (specially Liza), and the Boy who has brought so much shine to all my smiles. Mil gracias a mis padres, hermano, abuelos (especialmente a esa en el cielo a quien extrano tanto), tios, tias y amigos por su apoyo y amor durante estos veintidos anos)

'Love bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things. Love never fails... When I was a child, I used to talk as a child, think as a child, reason as a child; when I became a man, I put aside childish things. At present we see indistinctly, as in a mirror, but then face to face. At present I know partially; then I shall know fully, as I am fully known. So faith, hope, love remain, these three; but the greatest of these is love.' - 1 Corinthians 13:7-13

Here is what I have seen to be good and fitting: to eat, to drink and enjoy oneself in all one's labor in which he toils under the sun during the few years of his life which God has given him; for this is his reward...he will not often consider the years of his life, because God keeps him occupied with the gladness of his heart. Men fear thought as they fear nothing else on earth -- more than ruin -- more even than death.... Thought is subversive and revolutionary, destructive and terrible, thought is merciless to privilege, established institutions, and comfortable habit. Thought looks into the pit of hell and is not afraid. Thought is great and swift and free, the light of the world, and the chief glory of man. -- Bertrand Russell (1872 - 1970)

I have no idea where I am going. I do not see the road ahead of me Nor do I really know myself, And the fact that I think I am following Your will Does not mean that I am actually doing so. But I believe that the desire to please You Does in fact please You. And I hope that I will never do anything apart from that desire. And I know that if I do this, You will lead me by the right road Though I may know nothing about it. - Thomas Merton

I hope that I cheered up random people occasionally. As for me, I am who I was. I don't take on blind faith that this whole experience was worthwhile. It challenge me to make it worthwhile. I made important friends, whom I loved seeing everyday. They knew as much, and that's what's mos important. The Supremes' song, 'Someday We'll be Together' has the right idea In the end, I even found exciting work that made me appreciate what this place offers.

'The point of being a mature artist is where realism replaces fantasy, where hopes never diminish, where the love of art is more passionate than ever. And yet that which we love has brought us a lot of suffering, because the life of an artist is often uncompromising at times. It's brought us a lot of pain, a lot of angst. And yet no matter what it's brought, the love of your craft will overpower it all.
Because when you see life, you see dance. You see feeling. We change the meaning of the words of our vocabulary with age.' - Ibriham

I would like to thank God, my family, and my friends, for making these years at Princeton amazing. Brian: 'Oh, you're going down, sucker!' Hammer: '...but whenever I tell the truth you get mad at me.' Rob: 'yeAH!' Danny: 'I don't wanna be what's a-matter with you' Cheez: 'seriously, honestly. no, seriously...' Matty: bread on bread D: '...you've never heard of tri-tip?' and to Alexandra: Every day I've known you has been better than the last. I love you.'

What a wonderful ride! It has been the privilege of my life to spend four years at Princeton. Good luck to everyone, that you may live grand lives. 'This is the last of your Springs. And now, in the serenity and quiet of this place, touch the depths of truth, feel the hem of heaven. You will go away with old, good friends. I've met people I never thought I would, I've had amazing profs, I've travelled to places I would never have dreamed of. And I'm still ambivalent about it all. Anyway, thanks especially to my awesome roommates, Ramesh, Savraj, and Tom, you've been great friends. Thanks to the professors I've worked with most closely, Olga Hasty and Caryl Emerson, you've been inspiring. 'Take me drunk, I'm home.' 'I made it!' -Both from my old pal Rob Murdoch, RSGC '99. 'For the real amazement, if you wish to be amazed, is this process. You start out as a single cell derived from the coupling of a sperm and an egg; this divides into two, then four, then eight, and so on, and at a certain stage
there emerges a single cell which has as all its progeny the human brain. The mere existence of such a cell should be one of the great astonishments of the earth.
People ought to be walking around all day, all through their waking hours calling to each other in endless wonderment, talking of nothing except that cell.'

From Mrs Dalloway, by Virginia Woolf: 'It was unsatisfactory, they agreed, how little one knew people. But, she said, sitting on the bus going up Shaftesbury Avenue, she felt herself everywhere; not 'here, here, here'; and she tapped the back of the seat; but everywhere...She was all that. Life is a wonderful journey full of possibilities. Do not listen to those who sit back, discourage and criticize; these are the nobodies who will soon be forgotten. Rather, follow your heart, use happiness as your guide, and take chances, for those who do this are the genuine heroes and champions in life. If you can see it, you can achieve it. Roark got up, reached out, tore a thick branch off a tree, held it in both hands, one fist closed at each end; [...] he bent the branch slowly into an arc. 'Now I can make what I want of it: a bow, a spear, a cane, a railing. That's the meaning of life.' 'Your strength?' 'Your work. 'Dreams surely are difficult, confusing, and not everything in them is brought to pass for mankind. For fleeting dreams have two gates: one is fashioned of horn and one of ivory. Those which pass through the one of sawn ivory are deceptive, bringing tidings which come to nought, but those which issue from the one of polished horn bring true results when a mortal sees them.' -- Homer, The Odyssey

Three thousand miles north east I left all my friends at the morning bus stop shaking their heads 'What kind of life you dream of? You're allergic to love' Yes I know but I must say in my own defense It's been undeniably dear to me, I don't know why When every other part of life seemed locked behind shutters I knew the worthless dregs we are, the selfless, loving saints we are, the melting, sliding dice we've always been.

Choose Something Like A Star
By Robert Frost

To our beautiful daughter Allison:
You are the star of your own production. Congratulations!
Love, Mom and Dad - June 2, 2003

O Star (the fairest one in sight),
We grant your loftiness the right
To some obscurity of cloud --
It will not do to say of night,
Since dark is what brings out your light.
Some mystery becomes the proud,
But to be wholly taciturn
In your reserve is not allowed.
Say something to us we can learn
By heart and when alone repeat.
Say something! And it says 'I burn.'
But say with what degree of heat.
Talk Fahrenheit, talk Centigrade.
Use language we can comprehend.
Tell us what elements you blend.
It gives us strangely little aid,
But does tell something in the end.
And steadfast as Keats' Eremite,
Not even stooping from its sphere,
It asks a little of us here.
It asks of us a certain height,
So when at times the mob is swayed
To carry praise or blame too far,
We may choose something like a star
To stay our minds on and be staid.

For All To Know

KCM '03

Someone will ask later, sometimes searching for a name, his own or someone else's, why I neglected his sadness or his love
or his reason or his delirium or his hardships:
and he'll be right: it was my duty to name you,
you, someone far away and someone close by,
to name someone for his heroic scar,
to name a woman for her petal,
the arrogant one for his fierce innocence,
the forgotten one for his famous obscurity.

But I didn't have enough time or ink for everyone.

Or maybe it was the strain of the city, of time,
the cold heart of the clocks
that beat interrupting my measure, something happened, I didn't decipher it,
I couldn't grasp each and every meaning:
I ask forgiveness from anyone not here:
it was my duty to understand everybody, becoming delirious,
weak, unyielding, compromised, heroic, vile,
loving until I wept, and sometimes an ingrate,
a savior entangled in his own chains,
all dressed in black, toasting to joy.

Why describe your truths
if I lived with them, I am everybody and every time,
I always call myself by your name.

Pablo Neruda

"Two roads diverged in a wood, and I -- I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference."
-Robert Frost

Four years ago you embarked on the road less traveled. As always, you not only accepted the challenge but you surpassed our every expectation.

Our sincerest CONGRATULATIONS on your gradutaion from PRINCETON UNIVERSITY!!

This is the highlight of your many achievements and is a tremendous milestone for you. You are a source of great pride to us, and to the "familia" that extends from New Mexico to Australia and everwhere in between. Thank you for sharing the Princeton experience with us. From our home in Albuquerque, we thoroughly enjoyed hearing of all your episodes, travails, travels and friendships. The many wonderful people you've met, the friends and acquaintences - all have, in some measure, enriched our lives here in the southwest. The friendships that you've made will remainwith you for a lifetime - friendships that will always recall four special and memorable years. Your hard work and enthusiastic attitude have served you well. Your "Si se puede" approach to life will contnue to guide you in your life's pursuits as you continue on your chosen road.

Again, Congratulations and - Keep Going Dawg!!!

"It is not the critic who counts, not the man who points out how strong the man stumbled or where the doer of deeds could have done better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena: whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who errs and comes short again . . who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions, and spends himself in a worthy cause; who atleast knows in the end the triumph of high achievement; and who, at worst, if he fails, at least fails while doing greatly, so his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat."

From the time you were a little girl wishing for a black and orange cat for your golden birthday, to the point of GaGa nicknaming you Serious Tiger, it seems you were destined to go to Princeton. It has been an honor to be the parents of a Princeton student-athlete. We have marveled at your accomplishments, dedication, and hard work, as you continued to mature and grow as a person these last four years. Thank you for sharing your Princeton experiences with us, so we also could get to know and enjoy that marvelous place. We have many special memories of our visits there with you. I will never forget our days spent together moving you in as a freshman; the realization that you were now a student at the best Ivy League College in the country was thrilling. What an opportunity! Yet, driving away and leaving you behind, alone at Baker Rink, was one of the hardest things I've ever had to do as your Mom. From the bright little girl who never wanted to be away from home, who just wanted to play hockey, you have grown into an outgoing and well-adjusted adult who has been blessed with many rich experiences, memories to cherish, and wonderful friends for life. We love you and have missed your energy and laughter and wait to welcome you back home to good old SSP, where so many others and we are so very PROUD of you! We pray that whatever God has planned for you life after you leave Princeton, your love for Him will keep growing and showing. May He continue to bless your tracks as you walk along life's new pathways.

Congratulations on this tremendous occaision. We love you very much.

THE WAR ON TERRORISM

Memorial services were held around the country on the anniversary of Sept. 11, which President George W. Bush proclaimed Patriot Day. One year after the attacks on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon, the sluggish American economy still felt the effects. News about Afghanistan diminished, but al Qaeda and Osama bin Laden were still in the news. Debate continued about what should be built at the Ground Zero site, and colleges were asked to turn over personal information about their foreign students and teachers to the FBI.

The country continued to pursue Osama bin Laden and other threats to national security in its War on Terror. Sometimes the war was subtle, and sometimes it was very noticeable. The Immigration and Naturalization Service began to fingerprint and photograph men who entered the United States from 18 Middle Eastern countries. Bush signed a Homeland Security bill into law that created a new federal department devoted to preventing future attacks and allowed commercial airline pilots to carry guns.

The director of the FBI announced that his organization had thwarted almost 100 terrorist attacks since Sept. 11, 2001. He said some of the attacks were intended for U.S. targets.

In a single game, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers made up for nearly 20 years of being the NFL's bad joke by routing the favored Oakland Raiders, 48-21, in Super Bowl XXXVII. With the league's number one defense, a much-improved offense and riding the intensity of first-year coach Jon Gruden, the Bucs rolled through the regular season to win the NFC South. They won on the road against Philadelphia in the conference championship game to earn the franchise's first trip to the Super Bowl. In becoming World Champions, Tampa Bay buried the past and helped earn its defense a place as one of the best ever alongside the 2000 Ravens and Pittsburgh's "Steel Curtain" of the 1970s. ◄
